Jud has a jukebox in his room. Luke likes to play with the jukebox, but he will not pay.

“My jukebox is not free,” says Jud. “If you want tunes, you must pay.”

“But I am your bud,” says Luke. “Must I pay to play a tune?”

“Yes, you must,” says Jud. “My tunes are good. If you want cool tunes, you must pay first.”

“You are too rude,” says Luke. “I will listen to tunes at home.”

“Wait, wait!” says Jud. “You can stay! The tunes are free! I don’t mean to be rude. I am just poor!”
